The District Court.

In district court all last Wednesday was spent in suits against the Santa Fe railway company by Mr. Clark and his wife, each bringing a separate suit, for damages sustained in being asked to leave the train because they would not pay for the fare of their fourteen year old son from Humboldt to Kansas City.

The attorneys for the plaintiffs are Mr. C. C. Dale, of Kansas City, who makes a living suing for damages, and W. A. Chogull, of Humboldt. One of the first things brought out by Major Foust, who is the attorney for the railroad, was the fact the plaintiffs had agreed to give the attorneys half of the damage money received from the railroad. The suit of Mr. Clark was finished by five o'clock and the jury was sent out and a jury was impaneled to try the Mrs. Clark suit.

The first jury came in during the night, bringing in a verdict in favor of the railroad company. The second case consumed all day Thursday and the jury sent out about 3 o'clock.

The case of the four boys charged with the robbery of John Wolf has not yet been set for hearing. The charge on which they were arrested and for which they are being held is grand larceny. This they propose to fight, but it is reported that they are willing to plead guilty to the charge of gambling under the Cribbison law, which would not inflict a penitentiary sentence on them.

The district court's time was consumed Saturday in the appeal case of Beaman & Higginbotham vs. S. D. Brandenburg the case coming up from Justice's court and having to do with the ownership of a threshing outfit.

The jury in the case of Mrs. Ida L. Clark vs. the Santa Fe railroad company came in Saturday evening just a few minutes before court adjourned for Sunday and announced that they were unable to agree. The vote stood eleven for the defendant and one for the plaintiff, and the vote had stood thus for the past twenty-four hours. This means that another jury will have to be impaneled and the case tried over again.

The suit in district court Saturday of Beaman & Higginbotham vs. S. D. Brandenburg was ended by the jury finding for the plaintiffs in the sum of $6.11. The suit was a complicated affair for the lay spectator to get an understanding of. Brandenburg had his threshing done by a machine which he thought belonged to William Grimes while as a matter of fact it had been bought by the plaintiffs. Brandenburg paid Grimes for the work and the plaintiffs sued to get their money from Brandenburg.

Monday morning court interested itself in the troubles of Matt Dalton who is bothered about a horse he traded to Charlie Christy. It sounds exceedingly proper to try a Dalton on such a charge, but there may be no connection. Dalton says he traded for a dun pony with a one-eye camera last April. Later he traded the pony to Bishop for a horse, sold the horse and went to the Territory. There seems to be no least question but that the pony was stolen from farmers in Anderson county, and the question before the house is to determine who was the original dealer in the stolen property.

With the liquor cases out of the way the district court is galloping along at a lively rate in the disposal of the business which comes before it.

William Ransom, now serving out a jail sentence for a misinterpretation of the provisions of the prohibitory law, was indicted by the second grand jury also and Tuesday morning pleaded guilty to the 14th, 15th and 16th counts and the others were dismissed.

The suit of James Allen, the colored man who complained of being refused food at the Our Way restaurant was continued by consent.

Mrs. Minnie Daugherty was granted a divorce from her husband, Jack Daugherty.

Polly Downey sued her husband Geo. W. Downey and was awarded in fee simple the property mentioned in the petition and also the custody of the two minor children. Mr. and Mrs. Downey ran the hotel at Lansingville and she accused him of trying to run away with the children.

The suit of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company against Geo. W. Moore was dismissed without prejudice.

In the suit of the Phoenix Insurance Company against Wm. J. Price the court found for the plaintiff and foreclosure proceedings will be completed.

The jury in the case of State vs. Matt Dalton, charged with stealing a horse, brought in a verdict of guilty of grand larceny.

The liquor case against W. M. Robinson was continued and his bond fixed at $400.

Leroy Taylor, the young man who was so unfortunate as to drive a horse to death, pleaded guilty and was fined $25.

The case against Paul Goshorn on the same charge was dismissed.

Tuesday morning the case of the four young men charged with robbing John Wolf came up. It has been a question all the time in the minds of the legal talent whether the young men could be convicted of robbery and several of the best lawyers claimed that they could not be charged with anything more than gambling.

The boys through their attorney made a motion to have the information made more definite and certain, pending which the county attorney made several amendments, and the motion was over-ruled and the defendants excepted. A motion to quash the information was also over-ruled. The State was given leave to file the amended information and the defendants pleaded guilty to the second count of the amended information and the State accepted the plea dismissing the first count without prejudice.

This means that the charge of robbery has been withdrawn and that of gambling substituted and the young men pleaded guilty to the latter.

This comes under the second section of the Cribbison gambling law which reads as follows: "Every person who under circumstances not provided for in the preceding section shall bet any money or property or upon any gambling table, bank or gambling device, or the throwing of dice, or upon the result of any game of chance, whether with dice or cards or other thing, or hazard money or property upon chance to be determined by means of any kind of gambling device, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than ten days nor more than thirty days, or by both such imprisonment and fine."

All of which means that the young men have come off very easily from a tight place. The robbery charge had it been proven would have meant the penitentiary at least.

The case of State vs. W. W. Krusch was dismissed, as was also that of the city of Humboldt vs. the Humboldt gas company.

John M. Kelly was granted a divorce from his wife Mabel Kelly and was given the custody of his one child.

In the case of John Randall vs. the Roston safe deposit and loan company the court found for the plaintiff and he was given a title to the property named in the petition.

Judge Stillwell Thursday donned his garb as judge and transacted business with the criminals who had been found guilty during this term of court.

The first man up was Matt Dalton, found guilty of horse-stealing, and he was sentenced to one year in the State penitentiary at hard labor.

The next were the four young men who pleaded guilty to gambling and awaited sentence rather than try issues with the law on the subject of fleeing John Wolf out of $1,000 by means of the trick lock. The four young men were assembled, two being brought from the jail and the other two from their homes, they having given bond. The judge looked them over and he thought a whole lot, but he didn't say much. What he did say fell like lead on the hopes of the four as to the sentence which was coming. He pronounced on each a sentence of 30 days in the county jail, a fine of $100 and each to pay the costs of the action. This is the limit which the law allows under the statute which fixes the penalty at not less than ten nor more than thirty days imprisonment, not less than ten nor more than $100 fine, or both. The court gave both at the limit and the judgment of the community is with him. After sentencing them, "From what I have been able to learn of your case in the brief examination I have made, I congratulate you that you are not all on the way at this moment to the penitentiary."

A divorce was granted to William Irwin, of Geneva, from his wife Alva.
